A: You can also do this from a service provider (i.e. boot() function in app/Providers/AppServiceProvider.php). class AppServiceProvider extends ServiceProvider { /** * Bootstrap any application services. * * @return void */ public function boot() { $db = Connection::getConnection(); } * Register any application services. public function register() } Association of low plasma arginine levels with increased kidney injury in critically ill patients: a prospective observational study. The urea cycle is essential for the synthesis of urea, ornithine, and citrulline. The latter are part of arginine metabolism, which serves as a substrate for nitric oxide (NO) production and, among other things, NO is known to be important in preventing and/or healing of kidney injury. Arginine is the substrate for NO synthesis, and thus a decrease of circulating arginine levels could be associated with kidney injury. We sought to investigate the associations between plasma levels of ar 82157476af
